

Are you an acoustic consultant looking for new challenges? AECL is seeking experienced acousticians at all levels

A bit about us...

AECL is a small but dynamic company working on a diverse portfolio of projects, from small local projects to world-scale engineering projects and we have provided advice at Government level both in the UK and abroad.

We are currently engaged on a large number of projects, in particular providing noise and vibration services on major construction projects including Crossrail and HS2.

In addition to our construction work, we are currently working on Projects in the following fields:

- Oil and Gas/Petrochemical
- Industrial and Power Generation
- Transportation
- Planning
- Occupational Noise Assessment
- Sound Insulation Testing (ANC Registered)
- Vibration

What we can offer you...

Due to our expanding workload, we are looking to recruit suitable candidates at Principal, Senior and Consultant level.

Our office is based in Croydon, with direct transport links to central London.

You will work on a wide variety of projects in a challenging and rewarding environment.

We offer a competitive salary, very flexible working conditions (including paid overtime and time off in lieu) and good promotion prospects, along with a commitment to your continuing professional development.

What we need from you...

- A relevant degree or IOA diploma in acoustics and noise control
- Relevant experience, including major construction projects
- A full driving license
- Self-motivation and ability to work as part of a team
- Good written and oral communication
